President Interested in Two Measures.

National Irrigation and Canal Have His Indorsement.

Chief Executive Goes to Senator Hanna's Residence Before Breakfast.

W ASHINGTON, April 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] During the debate in the Senate today, Senator Allison, the best-informed man in the Senate upon the legislative programme, intimated that it would be two months or more before Community and the senate upon th would hardly take two months to clean up the absolutely necessary work that Congress has on hand, for most of the appropriation bills are nearly ready for final passage, and some of them have been passed by both houses siready. Today's intimation indicates that Congress intends to stay here until it has gone through with its whole programme, and it indicates further that the President's personal pressure for action upon two biffs particularly interesting to the West, and the Pacific Coast is having considerable effect.

The President insists that it is absolutely necessary that at this session of Congress there will be passed a bill making provision for national irrigation, and also a bill providing for the construction of the Nicaragua Canal. He is insistent upon these two measures, and declares that Congress will not be keeping faith with the people unless it takes them up and disposes of them both. The President's insistence upon the passage of the Irrigation Bill has driven the House and Senate Bill has driven the House and Senate leaders into agreeing practically that they will pass that bill. They are not canal Bill, which some of them pre-fer to see held back for use in future political platforms, but the President is urging this forward, and the Senate is under the necessity of either taking up the bill seriously or going back upon the President.

This bill figures rather conspicuously in the President's programme for curbing trusts. He thinks, with other canal advocates, that the best way to curb the railroad trusts is to bring them into competition with a great water-ator Hanna's Presidential boom. He has been far more friendly with President Roosevelt than certain political wiseacres predicted would be the case. The fact that Senator Hanna is the chairman, and Postmaster-General Payne, vice-chairman, of the Republican National Committee, adds to the apparent significance of the gathering. It is rather unusual for a President to breakfast elsewhere than at the White House, but in this case, as in many others. President Roosevelt proves himself no slave of conventionality. During the visit of James J. Hill in Washington, Monday and yesterday, he dined twice at Senator Hanna's house, and it is suggested that he may have dinned in the Senator's ears the displeasure of the railway magnates at the President's procedure against the railroad merger. Hill voiced his discontent to a number of the members of the upper house, and altogether his visit, while partially made in the interest of the railroad side in the approaching fight over the Interstate Commerce Bill, also stirred up the members friendly to the railroads to resentment toward the President. It is regarded as significant that Hill did not call at the White President. It is regarded as signifi-cant that Hill did not call at the White House during his recent visit, although he usually has called heretofore.

LACEY CHANGES PRONT. LEASING OF PUBLIC LAND.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, April 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nettled by allegations that the public lands grazing bill was drawn in the interest of the beef trust, Chairman Lacey of the Public Lands Committee today introduced a new bill that goes to an opposite extreme.

The bill that Land Commissioner Hermann attacked provided that lands in the public domain might be leased for grazing purposes for terms of ten years, with the privilege of renewal. This would give the lessees a practical monopoly of all lands that they got hold of under the lesse. That bill also falled to limit the amount of land that any one person or corporation might Perhaps they are intended as a gift of some one outside of the President's family, but it is intimated in White House circles that the garments are to sany one person. It is provided that no corporation shall be permitted to lease these lands either directly or indirectly. The Secretary of the Interior is directed to divide the lands into six classes numbered from 1 to 6, and to lease them at an annual rental of 1 cent per acre for No. 2 and so on up to 6 cents for No. 2, and so on up to 6 cents for No. 6 lands.

It is also declared that Gen. Chaffee was not instructed from Washington as to the kind of warfare to be waged in Samar. IPT THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS P.M.; WASHINGTON, April 30.—Senator Burton, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported a resolution favorable to the passage of the bill granting a right of way across the San Francisco Mountain forest reserve in Arizona to the Central Arizona Railway Company, now ithis tanding, the objections of notwithstanding the objections of the President, set forth in a veto message recently sent to the Senate. The President based his criticism of OAKLAND, April 30.—George H.

Collins, the San Francisco attorney, was today made the defendant in a suit for an accounting that involves an estate valued at about $300,000. The suit is brought by William Crane Spencer, assignee of H. V. Morehouse of San José.

It appears from the complaint that on July $, 1898, Abner Paul Marston came into possession of property valued at $300,000 in Maine, Massachustetts, connecticut, Wisconsin, Florida, Washington and North Dakota. The property was devised to Marston by Abner Coburn, who died at Skowheegan, Me., but it was to be held in trust for him until he attained his majority.
The complaint further recites that Abner Paul Marston assigned 10 per cent, of his property in 1898 to H. V.
Morehouse and F. J. Hambly of San José, Morehouse to receive 62-2 per cent, and Hambly 31-3 per cent. It is now claimed this agreement was broken, and Collins was given the estate to handle.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Three suicides were reported at the morgue today, two by cyanide of potassium and one by the pistol. Despondency caused by incurable diseases, furnished the motive for two of the cases. That of the third, as well as the identity of the dead man, is unknown.

With sufficient money in bank to support him for the remainder of his days, James Byrnes, 75 years of age, shot and killed himself at 11:30 o'clock. The second case was that of a man about 40 years of age. He committed suicide in a lodging-house by taking cyanide of potassium.

The third case was that of Conrad W. M. Wulff. Up to two years ago Wulff worked as a porter for the firm of Sachs Bros., and became afflicted with a disease, of which the chief symptom is a hardening of the skin.

So far as the returns have come in from the country districts remarkable gains are shown, but the outside districts will not be complete for several days.

In the city of Stockton, from which returns are complete, a superficial inspection of the summaries shows a gain of 803 over the census of 1900 in the city proper. Still larger gains are shown in the suburbs, and the population of the city and its three chief suburbs will amount to over 21,000. The power company is trying to identify the unprincipled parties who have amused themselves lately by shooting at the insulators, and otherwise damaging the property of the company.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.1

WASHINGTON. April 30.—Having received a letter from the president of the Republican Club of New York, stating that he had arranged for a conference between Atty.—Gen. Knox and representatives of the packing companies, the Attorney-General today replied as follows:

chased an animal of fine appearance, but with which he did not feel satisfied until he had heard what Miss Leiter had to say about it; so off he rode to the grand white mansion at Dupont Circle, and very luckily happened to meet the lady just as she was going out for a drive. To make an inspection of the horse the girl gathered her dainty skirts about her with one hand, and with the other she opened the animal's mouth to look at his teeth, lifted his leg, felt the bones and muscles, and with an approving pat on the thoroughbred's neck she remarked enthusiastically. "He's a find. His bones are splendid, the muscles hard, and the quarters are superb; altogether he is pretty well rigged." In thus setting the seal of her approval on the horse, the owner felt that he had secured a bargain, for none can gainsay the opinion of the most dashing horsewoman of the capital. To be an expert judge of horsefiesh is a new role for women, but probably one that will be often assumed now that we are in the twentieth entury, the woman's era.

Mr. Carmack of Tennessee declared that the report made by Maj.

Gardiner was so startling and important that the Secretary of War had endeavored to keep it away from the Senate and from the American people.

Mr. Culberson of Texas explained that the minority of the Philippine Commission especially desired Maj. Gardiner's testimony, because his statements had been challenged by Gov. Taft and Gen. MacArthur.

Mr. Lodge the chairman said that

Mr. Lodge, the chairman, said that Maj. Gardiner ought to appear before the committee. Personally, he desired to hear his festimony before Congres to hear his testimony before Congress adjourned. If the testimony of one provincial Governor was desirable, that of thirty-odd other provincial Govern-ors probably would be. "Has the Senate suggested," inter-ors probably would be.

"Has the Senate suggested," interrupted Mr. Patterson, "that the other Governors be called?"

"I make the suggestion now," retorted Mr. Lodge.

Mr. Patterson said the minority had objected to the calling of no witness, and, indeed, was willing that any witnesses should be summoned who could throw any light on the situation.

Continuing, Mr. Lodge said that the minority of the committee had suggested that Aguinaldo, Mabini, Sixto Lopez and some prisoners on the Island of Guam; H. H. Bray, an agent of the Filipino junta at Hongkong, and two Associated Press correspondents, Collins at Peking and Martin in Venezuela, be called as witnesses. The committee had decided not to call them for various reasons. The committee said that the testimony of Filipino prisoners was not desirable; Bray was a British subject, and the two correspondents were inaccessible.

Mr. Carmack said Maj. Gardiner had made a grave accusation against military conduct in his province, and he believed the accusation demanded an investigation. He then sent to the clerk's desk, and, after some objection from Mr. Lodge and a brief spat between the two, had read a brief synopsis of a statement which Edward Atkinson expected to have made to the committee.

Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, from the Committee of Rules, resented a special order to make it an order to engraft personal tax legislation operative in the District of Columbia happropriation Bill. Mr. Canno n explained that the personaltax law of the district, which ought to raise $100,000, had been inoperative for two years, and the Appropriation Committee now proposed to put it into force. It was driven to this action, he said, by the failure of the district committees of the two houses to take action. The rule was adopted, and the House then began consideration of the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill. Without finishing it, the House, at 5:10 o'clock, p.m., adjourned.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Viennese Women Have Started a Crusade Against the Present Modes-Various Opinions Expressed.

Various Opinions Expressed.

[London News:] A Vienna correspondent informe me that a woman's fortnightly paper, edited by Frau Marie Lang, has just made a sensation with an enquete on the necessity of reforming woman's dress, Artists, physicians, art critics, and even a tailor and a couple of women were asked to give their opinions on the subject, and to make propositions for a reform.

The most voluminous answer was given by a painter, Prof. Roller, president of the Society of Artists, who follow the new style. He begins by saying that artists cannot be considered competent on woman's dress, which ing that artists cannot be considered competent on woman's dress, which for them exists only from the decorative point of view, whereas one must have lived in woman's dress to be competent to pronounce an opinion on what is the ideal dress.

He thinks that women must propose the reforms, and carry them into effect. They must be educated differently before they are capable of taking matters into their own hands. He wishes to draw a model instead of learning the history of art; to cultivate flowers instead of classifying in a book; to undertake the care of live animals instead of describing stuffed vate nowers instead or classifying in a book: to undertake the care of live animals instead of describing stuffed ones; to live in the month of May instead of writing sonnets about it.

By developing their faculties women are taught what is useful and good from a nobler point of view than from that of fashions.

He wishes women to be more truth.

He wishes women to be more truth-He wishes women to be more truthful and sincere in their dress. He hates the buttons that do not button, the clasps that do not clasp, the bows that are not tied, the sham waist-coats and sleeves that exist only as far as they can be seen, and he thinks that it would be a real reform of women's dress if everything that is false and sham is swept ruthlessly aside.

He cannot see what fine sentiment there is in making believe that the borders of a bodice hold together by some myisible power instead of by buttons and button holes, or by hooks and eyes.

Questioned on corsets and the dress of the future, he says: "No definite rules can be laid down. One woman can go about without corsets, while another finds it impossible to do so. The campaign against corsets cannot lead to lasting results, because all changes in fashion—as in art—are based upon contrasts. At present we love the straight line. A RABS AND BALLOONS AT MASONIC FAIR.

GREATEST CROWD YET IN AT-TENDANCE LAST NIGHT.

Girls Wring the Last Cent from Unwary Victims for the Benefit of the Home Cause-Magnificent Military Exhibition by Famous Patrol.

Walked home from the Masonic fair The Humane Officer ought to be called in, for this is positively heartless ruelty.

"I saw you dancing with Jim," said a merry little maid on the way home from the fair last night.
"When," said the girl in yellow.
"Second two-step."
"Oh, no," very earnestly. "He didn't have a cent after the second walts, so I danced with somebody else."
A girl at a Masonic fair is a terrible menace.

when you see a girl coming without any hat—fly, scoot.

You can always tell 'em by the hat; they don't wear any.

From a secure vantage in the gallery one was carefully observed last night to gain, if possible, some reliable information as to the habits of the fair creature (No pun intended.)

She was a girl in tan and something, with a diamond brooch.

She felt the brooch and held up a defenseless man for a quarter. She gathered up her skirt with the right hand, and after being sure of the brooch, caught the eye of a man she knew, and drew him in. Half a dollar. She poked in the rat under her pompadour, and it cost some one 15 cents.

Holy Moses! An introduction to this damsel cost money.

There was another girl, too. She was the littlest girl. She had been standing soberly in front of the platform watching the drawing of the raffles, when some one picked her up in his arms, a big Shriner in a fez, and stood her up on the table. She stood there all the

ACCURATE DIAGNOSIS

MEN'S DISEASES

DISEASE is often treated blindly. The first essential, an accurate diagnosis, is too often an allment and determine every requirement for a thorough cure, demands exceptional skill. I know just what must be accomplished in each individual case, and this knowledge directs every step and detail throughout the process of

CONTRACTED DISORDERS.

In no other aliment peculiar to men is a prompt and thorough cure so essential. Contracted disorders tend trital nerve centers become involved in the inflammation. Then follows a chronic stage that stubbornly resists all ordinary treatment. Safety demands that every vestige of infection be eradicated at the earliest possible moment. My treatment is thorough. The remedies employed have a more positive action than has ever before been attained, and so perfect is my method of application that even chronic cases yield completely.

VARICOCELE.

Under my treatment the most aggravated cases of varicocele are cured in a few days' time. There is most and it is seidom necessary that the patient be detained from his occupation. Normal circulation is at once restored throughout all the organs, and the natural processes of waste and repair are ngain catablished. If you are afflicted with varicocele, consult me at once. STRICTURE.

Surgery should have no place in the treatment of stricture. There is no necessity for it. This is a fact that I have demonstrated in hundreds of instances. I remove all contracting tissue without cutting or dilating. I employ a painless and harmless treatment that gradually dissolves the stricture, subdues all inflammation, removes all irritation or congestion from the kilary's or bladder, reduces enlargement of the protate gland and restores health and tone to all organs affected.

The drill of the Arab Patrol was one of the finest military exhibitions ever seen in the city.

Somehow it had a little of the stealthy, soft quickness of the desert, yet it had all the snap of a trained body of soldiers.

They were all in the gorgeous apparel of the Aden Arabs, with zouave jackets of rich green velvet, heavily embroidered in gold. The uniforms had been specially imported from Arabia at a cost of more than $2000.

Perry Weidner, the commander of the patrol, was gotten up in the dress of an Arabian commander. Mr. Weidner was a wonder in woolly false hair. He looked like a Circassian beauty fallen into the lamp black.

As a drill master, however, he did a feat that will be long remembered by military enthusiasts in handling a body of troops in the most intricate evolutions in so small a space.

LIVING FOR HEALTH.

HEN we ask what is health of body, we receive a variety of answers, the best of which is that of the biologist, who says: "The body is in health when all its cells tein is associated with fat, and in some (as in the grains and legumes) with carbohydrate (starch) in large amount. People who discard animal foods and products depend for their protein upon grains, legumes and tubers. The objection which may be raised to this is that it is uneconomic to use a surplus of one food substance to obtain a sufficiency of another; they are obliged to take too much starch to obtain the needed protein.

FOOD THAT GIVES ENERGY,
The body requires not only cell-building material, but energy-producing substances to maintain its heat and produce movement. Within the body, as cisewhere in nature, force is generated by chemical change. Carbohydrates (starch and sugar) and fats, when taken into the body, readily undergo dissolution; the products of such change are easily gotten rid of, hence the importance of using fat, starch and sugar in sufficient quantity as generators of energy, increasing the amount in cold weather, and when physical exertion is demanded.

PROPER FOOD PROPORTION.

All foods contain enough inorganic valts to replace those lost from the body. Chloride of sodium (common sait) possibly may be an exception, since we crave it in perceptible quantity. It increases the palatability of many foods, and as it is easily removed from the body there is no objection to its use as a condiment. To keep the body in health it is necessary to supply it regularly with water, meat (or its equivalent in proteins bearing food), with fat and with sugar or starch. The proportion of these in the day's food, roughly given, would be three parts protein, one of two parts fat and isix parts starch or sugar. The quantity of food required depends on age, sex, activity of mind and body, hablt, season, climate, etc.

In children not only repair of cells is going on, but also their multiplication, as as the process of growth proceeds. They need more food, therefore, in children, Provide them with well-tooked food (changing the proportion of perhaps to two parts protein, one part fat, to eight or nine of starch and augar, giving at the same time a suifaction in mount of vegetable food "to dealing with the skin, baths and clopking, will appear in next Thursday's Times.) cooked food (changing the proportion perhaps to two parts protein, one part fat, to eight or nine of starch and sugar, giving at the same time a sufficient amount of vegetable food "to fill up the chinks," and they will not injure themselves by over-eating. After the age of 50 years, chemical changes within the body go an more slowly than in early life, and less food is needed to replace loss. If a "green old age" is desired, a careful guard must be set upon the appetite, and only as much food consumed as can be utilized by the body.

Habit has much to do with the demands of appetite. We in America no doubt get in the habit of eating more than do our trans-Atlantic neighbors, and especially do we eat more protein food. Some sanitarians attribute to this the nervous disorders grouped under the popular term "Americanitis." It is quite possible they are right, but we should include in the explanation the free drinking of ice water with meals, an unstinted use of sweets (candy, for instance,) with and without other food, mental strain and worry and an indoor life.

When we ask what is health of body, we receive a variety of answers, the best of which is that of the biologist, who says: "The body is in health when all its cells and tissues are in a state of normal activity." What is meant by "cells" and by "normal activity?" The human body, like the bodies of animals and plants, is made up of "life stuff (microscopic vitalized particles of pritocopic vitalized particles of protoplaqm) called cells. They come into existence through the division of a material cell like themselves; they imbite nourishment from the liquids which surround them; they undergo chemical changes whereby they add to their substances, or grow, and under the influences of the substances, or grow, and under the influences of the substances, or grow, and the body, such as muscular contraction, the formation of protective coverings, the manufacture of secretions, absorption, etc. The life period of some of the cells is short, which the sease containt by absorption, etc. The life period of some of the cells is short, which the sease containt by absorption, etc. The life period of some of the cells is short, which the sease containt by absorption, etc. The life period of some of the cells is short, which is the same than in different individuals perform their functions; the fixed and uniform way in which organs do their work is called normal functional activity. cells continually undergo are accompanied by loss of cell substance; hence the process of cell repair must go on simultaneously or loss of body substance will result. A study of body cells and tissues shows that their two principal constituents are water and protein. In addition they contain oxygen, fat, starch and inorganic salts. Water, therefore, is a true food, and should be used in large amount—one or two quarts daily in addition to that taken with meals is not too much. It is needed not only to replace that which is lost from the cells, but to float to them the nutrient materials liquefied in the digestive canal and passed to the tissues. It is also needed to carry out of the body the products of waste. If a surplus of water is taken it easily finds its way out through the kidneys, lungs or skin, thereby all the more effectively performing another important function—that of removing waste.

ARGUMENT FOR MEAT.

Protein, the second most important cell-building substance, is derived mainly from lean meat, milk, eggs, cheese, grains and legumes (beans and peas.) In these food substances protein is associated with fat, and in some (as in the grains and legumes) with carbohydrate (starch) in large amount.—People who discard animal foods and products depend for their protein upon grains, legumes and tubers. The objection which may be raised to this is that it is uneconomic to use a surplus of one food substance to obtain a sufficiency of another; they are obliged to take too much starch to obtain the contained ries the tired diaphragm; as the space distinctions of body substances in distinction—that of removing waste.

CHILD'S SAD STORY.

Testimony of Maud Ferguson Makes Her Grandfather Guilty of Murdering Her Mother and Grandmother.

NEW YORK, April 30.—With re-markable composure, twelve-year-old Maude Ferguson, the only living wit-ness of the shooting of her mother and grandmother in their homes in Milburn last February, has testified at Newark to facts which, if substantiated, will convict her gray-haired grandfather, Philemon Crelin. convict her gray-haired grandfather, Philemon Crelin. The girl, who was looked upon as the star witness for the State, told a straightforward story.
While she spoke there were few dry eyes in the courtroom.

On the night of the shooting she said her grandfather came into the house, and after a few words shot her grandmother, killing her instantly.

Then he shot the witness's mother, and fired a shot at the witness as she dived under a table at which she had been writing. He then turned the revolver on himself, but the wound inflicted did not prove fatal, much to Crelin's regret. While the girl was testifying Crelin never raised his head.

a good strike in the Midway field. According to advices from the territory, the drill has entered oil sand at a depth of 1200 feet, and already the well gives indications of becoming as good a producer as any brought in in that part of the country.

The Dixon company is one of those that became discouraged prior to the strike of the Sunset Coast. The well was down to a depth of 1900 feet when it was decided to give up. After the strike named, operations were resumed with the result that within three days the drill entered oil sand.

The Kern Crown, which had also discontinued work, has just resumed drilling, and the Occidental Queen on the southeast quarter of section 25, will start up in a few days. The Dixon well is on the northeast quarter of section 25, 32, 23.

Last night the big round of social events was auspiciously inaugurated with an informal reception at the Westminster, tendered by the California State officers to federation delegates. At the Van Nuys Mrs. Lowe, the president, and other general officers greeted visiting club women.

The campaign for the presidency attained a greater degree of warmth. Mrs. Burdette's opponents were very active and claimed to have made gains.

TO THE VISITORS.

For Two Hours and a Half the Reception Room at the Westministe ning Women of the Land.

Informal, unheralded and almost unannounced, the reception given by the officers of the State Federation to the delegates to the General Federation, last evening at the Westminster Hotel, proved a felicitous introduction to the Biennial programme. At the same time that all this was taking place at the Westminster, the Van Nuys, just across the street, was the scene of what might be called "an informally-informal" reception to the president, Mrs. Rebecca Douglass Lowe, and the officers of the General Federation. The lobby and pariors were filled with those who came to meet the distinguished guests. Among those present were noticed Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. presidency, but no names were mentioned.

Political wiseacres among the women said yesterday that Mrs. Burdette's chances are not so bright as they have been, and her active opponents claim to have made gains in the campaign against her.

One eastern woman heid views opposite to those of Mrs. Scott-Decker. This woman said it would be the handsome thing to give the presidency to the Pacific Coast or some Far Western State in view of the fact that the next Blennial probably will go to an eastern or a Middle West city.

Up and down the line, at afternoon teas, at committee meetings at State gatherings, and wherever a bevy of women assembles the presidency is discussed, and from present appearances no other issue is half so important.

Mrs. Burdette was compelled to remain in her rooms at the Van Nuys all day yesterday, suffering with an abscess in the right ear, which caused her intense pain Tuesday night. An operation was performed by Drs. McCoy and Bridge, and she endeavored to make her appearance in the morning, but she had a fainting speil and remained in quiet all day. In the evening she was for the high office, being a good parliamentarian, an eloquent speaker, and a woman of great magnetic powers and fine executive ability.

Mrs. Platt-Decker was taken ill en route to Los Angries, and came near turning back to her Denver home. But she was afforded some relief on the train by Dr. Lobingier of Denver, and upon arrival in this city sought rest and recuperation by shutting herself up in her room at the Van Nuys Hotel and denying herself to all visitors except a few intimate friends. By 10 o'clock last night Mrs. Platt-Decker had quite recovered from her indisposition, and received a Times reporter quite graciously." She asked when the emissary of the press inquired, as to the state of her health. He had to admit that she looked quite in condition for any fray, and she remarked that she was feeling very well, indeed, and quite in form for the arduous labors of the convention.

NEW ENGLAND IN FORCE.

The largest party came on the New England special that arrived in two sections at 3:30 o'clock via the Southern Pacific. The trains, which were in charge of Raymond and Whitcomb, left Boston on the 1Ind inst., and consisted of twelve cars each. Each train contained two dining cars, an observation car, sleepers and baggare cars, elegant in their appointments. There were 339 passengers all told, and among them were nearly all the delegates and igeneral officers from the New England States, including Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire, Massachusetts had the largest delegation, seventy-nine members, and the Nutmes State was next in point of numbers.

She has been most active in the work of federating the Kansas clubs-in bodies to conform to the seven Congressional districts, and under her presidency the membership has grown from 3000 to 5000. THE COLOSSUS OF THE WORTH. An interesting item of news comes from St. Petersburg. It is said that persistent reports are in circulation there to the effect that the Czar will shortly issue a recript, giving a constitution similar to the scheme for administrative reform drawn up by a late Minister of the Interior, which Cas, Alexander III. If this is true, it marks the lapse of Middle Age despotism in its last important nghold among the civilized nations of the world. For Russia is today, lute despotism, where the people have not even a pretense of a voice in the management of public affairs, and where the Czar is the temporal as well as the spiritual representative count, for it really belongs to Asia. Last evening at the Los Angeles Theater Mme. Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler gave a piano recital, rendering the above programme. Of most piano recitals, even by great artists, it is enough to state that they took place, giving the programme and mentioning a few strong characteristics of the performer. That is generally sufficient to give a fair idea of the concert. Such is not the case with the recital of last night. It is beyond the power of cold type to describe the effect produced by the playing of Mme. Zeisler. Certainly there has been nothing here to which one can logically compare it. It is woman's playing, a resolution of the eternal feminine into music. It is not the massive, intellectual playing of a Rosenthal, though it never lacks in neither ideal nor poetry. It has the power and brilliancy of Carreno without her harshness. It is just Zeisler, unique and great. This little nervous woman with the somber half-closed eyes, like velied fires, and the pale, ecstatic profile, has reared a new monument to art and winged herself to its pinnacle. Through the varied programme one thing was evident in every phrase—that Mme. Zeisler has absorbed the science of tone. Its purity and brilliancy it would be difficult to gramme one thing was evident in every phrase—that Mme. Zeisler has absorbed the science of tone. Its purity and brilliancy it would be difficult to surpass. Her fingers touch the keys in a dosen different ways, bringing out a dosen varied sounds from the same notes. In the light, rapid passages Mme. Zeisler's fingers flew so softly, scintillatingly, over the ivories that the music suggested the subdued whirring of the wings of a flock of humming-birds in flight. The translucent color of her playing mocks at description. Zeisler is a supreme emotionalist dominated by a noble intelligence. Hers is a rare temperament. Such musical passion is given to few and to still fewer the power to control it. It is because Zeisler is master of her emotions that her emotional power over her audience is so large, so complete. She might be a reincarnation of the soul of Chopin, so wholly has she the spirit of the great Pole's works. The tenderness of maternity breathed through the "Berceuse;" the "Valse" was a rhythmic dream and the "Polonaise" a whiriwind of passion and delirious fascination. In the lighter numbers one forgot the magnitude of emotion which had enthrailed in the "Eri-King" and the "Etudes Symphoniques," but the "Polonaise" brought back the realization of it with vivid force. The very soul of the woman spoke through it, recurring to the dominant theme each time with added fire and conviction. The effect on the listeners was remarkable. They stormed and clamored under the supplementation of the supplementation of the woman apoke through it, recurring to the dominant theme each time with added fire and conviction. The time with added fire and conviction. The effect on the listeners was remarkable. They stormed and clamored until, after bringing Mme. Had, however, the writer gone to the realm of music for his prototype and called her the Calvé of the plano, he might have done so without criticism. Zeisler is wonderfully suggestive of that great tragic singer in her subtle magnetism, her intensity and the sleeping fire of her eyes.

NEW YORK. April 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mostly in jest, but still with some appearance of seriousness. Andrew Carnegie, before sailing for England today on the St. Louis, declared that some day he might go into the newspaper publishing business. "Some day I may buy up a lot of newspapers," he told reporters who were gathered about him, "and then I will give you all a chance. I have had something of this kind in mind for a long time, and quite soon I may determine to carry out the idea."

Carnegie is taking a six months' vacation, and will spend most of the time at Skibo Castle, his home in the Scottish Highlands. He said he had made no very recent gifts to libraries, and that there would be no announcement to make after his departure, as was the case last year, when his gift to the City of New York was made public the day after he sailed.

Local society furnished an interesting event yesterday in the marriage of Miss Emily Jarvis, dauchiter of Joshua Jarvis of Louisville, K.R., to Edwin T. Earl of Los Angeles. The bride is a sister of Mrs. West Hughes of this city, and it was at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hughes, corner of Twenty-third and Adams street, that the wedding took place, Rev. George Thomas Dowling performing the ceremony at high noon. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present, but while the wedding was practically private, it was none the less a pubtly affair, and the dainty color scheme of green and white that was carried but throughout the house was effective. The bridal couple stood, during the beremony, in front of an altar that was formed by the artistic use of a large mirror, nearly hidden by white sweet peas and ferns. The bride was gowned in the conventional bridal costume of white, the dainty dress being of lase, draped over taffeta. She wore a well and carried white sweet peas and ferns. Laura Bolano assisted at maid of bonor, and wore pink creps. Her flowers were pink sweet peas. Buy C. Earl of Oakland stood with his brother during the marriage services, after which breakfast was served. In the dilliar-room the white and green color scheme was carried out with sweet peas and tulle. Long streamers of the tulle reached from the chadelier to the bride's table, and ended in butterfly bows. In the center of the cloth was a basket of sweet peas. Central Park is the "home" of the open-air debater, the man of convictions, crochets and delusions, who must have an audience, but who does not hire a hall. Nearly every city has its campus, which has become so by a kind of prescription, but Central Park is, perhaps, unique in this respect, that there is no day or scarcely an hour when a debate may not be listened to. Its atmosphere has a charm for the talker, and he hies himself to it with the instinct that leads a duck to water. Frequently a debate begins in a friendly conversation between two on a park seat and develops into an animated discussion before a score or more, which gradually becomes general; then members of the audience will divide into sections and each one debate a separate topic, all as the result of the electricity that has been generated by the original discussion. And so it happened the other afternoon, when an old man, with intelligence beyond the average, remarked how frequently abstract terms that are used merely to convey ideas are confounded with concrete things. He illustrated what he meant, and his neighbor took mild exception. For a short time the debate proceeded in a friendly spirit, conducted in the manner of a conversation. Then the old man's opponent began to take stronger ground for his opsition, and the debate came on, in earnest. The old man's little, round, black eyes sparkled like beads, and he grew pale about the lids. He had a cane with him which he welded like a baton, when he was not stampling it on the ground or pointing a gnarled index finger at the point of his opponent's nose, as though he were taking aim with a revolver. The mild conversational tone had been dropped for the loud, argumentative key, and others in the park, attracted he the yocal animation, began to JURY'S CURIOUS VERDICT.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) April 30.—After hearing testimony in the case, the Coroner's jury today rendered a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Nettie Fargo. Came to her death through an accident, being shot by her husband, Harry B. Fargo, while he was under the influence of violent excitement, caused by her conduct. Fargo, who had unexpectedly returned to the city Monday night from Illinois, found his wife away from home. On her return shortly after midnight with another man, Fargo made an attempt to shoot her escort. First one and then another of the auditors "put in his oar," until it became a six-cornered debate. The air seemed to have become charged with talk: about every second one would venture a controversial issue with his neighbor; next, the audience broke up into knots, each one with a different subject, and going at it hammer and tongs. These knots, again, broke up into smaller groups, until pairs would go off a few yards, here and there, and have it out between themselves. Such is statesmanship among the chronic

NO SHOW FOR WINE. REDLANDS, April 30.—A report has been circulated here to the effect that ext fall the Casa Loma Hotel management would ask the City Trustees. to pass an ordinance allowing wine and other liquors to be served at the tables and that three of the Trustees had expressed themselves as willing to enact such an ordinance. One of the Trustees, who was reported as fathe Trustees, who was reported as favoring the measure, when informed of the rumor, stated that he had not been approached regarding the matter and that if he was the ordinance would not receive his support. He said that, with others of the board, he had pledged himself not to support any ordinance of such a nature. The rum is, therefore, without foundation, so far as a majority of the Trustees favoring such an ordinance is concerned.

BIRD AND SNAKE FIGHT.
Ralph Palmanteer a High School student of this city, is responsible for a story of a fight in the hills between a rattlesnake and a roadrunner, a bird hating the snake with a deadly hatred, that is not only interesting, but valuable from a naturalist's standpoint. There have been accounts of these encounters at various times, but Palmanteer's story is absolutely reliable. He was in the mountains near Painted Cave, when he saw a large bird swooping repeatedly to a certain spot, Going to the place he heard the noise of a rattler and saw the combat. The snake continually watched its adversary by turning its head in all directions. The bird darted at its victim and repeatedly struck at it. The fight lasted half an hour, and at the end of that time the snake had both of its eyes put out and was practically dead. Palmanteer secured the rattles, which were seven in number.

SHARES AND MONET.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, April 20.—A nervous and reverish tone developed in today's stock market, principally as the result of the extraordinary movement in International Power, with several contributory causes, including a stiffencing in the money rate, the uncertainty incident to operations for May disbursements, the outcome of the anthractic labor conference, and renewed reports of rain in the Southwest. International Power opened at 12%, a decline of a point from yesterday's close. It recovered and then situmped by successive stages of from one to three points to 163. It then raillied 29 points, jumping as much as five points between the principal points, impring as much as five points between the principal points, and fell back again to 182. Get a "baby yard," or have one made I repeat here directions for the manufact ture and use of it, which I gave nearly two years ago in this department:

An amateur carpenter can construct one as good as any that can be bought. Four upright sides, with a rall at the top and one at the bottom, filled with upright spin dies or slats, are hinged together, so that the square can be folded up like a campchigh. The bottom is filled with a piece of carpeting or flexible olicioth or salicient, tacked firmly to the lower rails. When the "yard" is spread out for use a small hook and staple at each corner prevent it from collapsing.

This enclosure may be carried all over the house, and upon the veranda, or into the yard when the warm weather comes on, set up in the most convenient place on, set up in the most convenient place and fastened into shape. This enclosure may be carried all over the heart you can never the toll-worn hands are folded meekly over the heart you can never a make? They are brought to the market and fastened into shape. Baby and his pillows—lif he be very young—his toys, if he be old enough to use them—are placed within the safe enclosure, and he is taught that most useful of lessons for child—or man (if we except obedience)— himself.

The "yard" is about four feet square. Should he fall asleep, put a pillow under his head, throw mosquito netting over the whole construction, and in summer lef him stay out of doors, unless you can give him a cool, darkened room in the house.

Keep him out of the kitchen—asleep or awake!

Your girlie will soon learn to pull herself to her feet by holding on to the rails, and, should she tumble, a double comfortable, laid in the bottom of the enclosure, will prevent her from hurting her self. In time she will steady her trial steps by the same convenient rail and trot around the "yard" as a colt in a paddock.

Pate de Foie Gras.

One cup of vinegar; one cup of water; a tablespoonful of batter; two-thirds of a cup of sugar. Put all into a saucepan and stir until melted, then add cold water. Stir until thick. Have pie tins lined with a firth crust, fill with the mixture and bake for fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Beat the white of an egg to a stiff meringue, adding two tablespoonful of powdered sugar. When the pies are done, draw them to the door of the oven, spread thickly with the meringue, and return to the oven until a very light brown.

Neufchatel cheese is made of cream
"curdled" by the addition of rennet. It is warmed to a little more than blood-heat, then put into a small press with a bottom of coarse netting, a light weight laid upon it, and it is left to drip until dry. De Brie cheese is quite a different thing, and is seldom made to perfection in this country.

Treat Men Only

Weakness

THERE IS NO SUCH CONDITION AS ORGANIC "WEARNESS" IN A MAN otherwise strong and robust, and if the following facts are understood he may realise the uselessness of treating it as such.

Anatomy and Physiology teach us that the Prostate gland (so-called neck of the bladder,) is the very center of the reproductive system in the male. Inflammation of any organ invariably causes disordered function of that organ and symptoms peculiar to the organ inflamed arise. It should be apparent that the Prostate, when demaged by long-continued and too often repeated excitement by 1th harmful influence exercised by an ill-treated contracted disorder, that disordered function must result. Prof. Joseph Fandrey, 642 South Main Street,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir: Having seen your cures from time to time, through the public press, I went to investigate and find out for myself. I have spoken to prominent citizens of Los Angeles that were cured by you, and I found out that your advertisements were solid facts.

I came, therefore, with faith in your ability as a Rupture Specialist, and today, thank God, I am as free from hernia as the day I was born.

I will, as long as I live, appreciate the good you have done me. You can make any use you wish of this testimonial, and I will, furthermore, say that am only too happy to answer any correspondence with regard to my cure. I wish also to state that I am employed in a lumber yard, (very hard work,) and I never lost one day from the time I went under your treatment. Yours respectfully.

adverse action was taken, it would result in no good.

The local fish catchers do not fear any invasion at this port from the Japanese. This is due, no doubt, to the rough water, the Japanese and that class not being partial to heavy surf work. The Redondo fishermen are all Americans, and do not fear competition from anybody. Their fishing gear and paraphernalia runs into thousands of dollars in valuation. Most of them have homes here, and as a class they are prosperous. During the past week, including today's catch, 42,000 pounds of fish have been shipped to the Los-Angeles markets.

STATE C. E. CONVENTION. Local Christian Endeavorers, have Local Christian Endeavorers have been working for a year or more to bring the 1903 State convention to this city. Redlands had heretofore been the only formidable competitor, but today the "Agitating Committee" received a letter from one of the most influential of the Redlands workers, stating that they do not care to bring the State convention there in the hot weather, and have decided to drop out of the race. The Endeavorers in that city are now expected to work for San Diego, and the local members consider that the battle is won.

REDONDO BREVITIES.
The steamer Dispatch arrived today with a cargo of telegraph poles for Los Angeles.

The steamer Robert Dollar arrived Tuesday and is discharging 680,000 feet of bridge timbers for Arizona.

The Los Angeles and Redonde Railway will send a special train to Los at Point Loma and the respective positions of the War Department and the Navy Department reservations in view of the fact that within a few months the government will begin establishing a coaling station on the latter property. It develops that that is the principal reason for the Ranger's visit to this port. This is taken as meaning that as soon as it is feasible the government will begin the construction of the coaling station here. The Ranger will remain here indefinitely, and before the time comes that the must return to her work in the Guif of California, will have had arrile opportunity to finish the survey of the plat on which the station will be located.

All the Cibao region, except Puerto Plata on the north coast, is in the hands of the revolutionists. Another uprising has the north coast, is in the hands of the revolutionists. Another uprising has broken out in the south of the republic. Gen. Navarro, who was sent to reinforce the government forces at Guaban, joined the Dominican revolutionists and marched on Monte Christi, where upon Gov. Garcia abandoned the place and took with him the Dominican troops and munitions of war to Puerto Plata.

A revolutionary outbreak has also occurred at Sanchez on the Bay of Sammans.

Streets and Stores Wondrous With Color—Elks Will Show Today.

Today marks the real begin-ning of La Fiesta de las Flores, the great three-days fete pecu-liar to Los Angeles, for which the preliminary lights flashed so brilliantly last night.

This will be Elks' Day, and the feature will be a grotesque parade at 2 o'clock p.m., the details of which are given below, and an Elks' minstrel show at the Los Angeles, theatre this day of the festival, with a mag-nificent floral parage at 11 a.m. Saturday will be horse day. The streets will be illuminated each night and there will be band

T WAS the dreamy tawny dusk of a brief but perfect twilight; the time, yesterday. It was in a country where the drama of the seasons is unknown, where the bur acts of the perpetual play are always one, and that a gauxy summer. It was in a city whose pulsing life threis with the passion of new-world growth. There the purpling, artificial dawn came down. It was the blossom of the Piesta's glory, that in the next three days will ripen into luscious fruit.

that in the next three days will ripen into luscious fruit.

It was a dream that man, the alchemist, had stored within the carbon's subtle coll and loosed to share the spiendor of the starry singht. It was born with a gentle mirmur and came upon the town by stellth. The streets were charmed with pith and flame, and every passer was lared by color's wondrous robes. The shancel of the evening's worship was new lighted for a festival.

through the gloom and Bierced it with ivory.

FROM ANGELS FLIGHT.

The long runway of the Angels' Flight stretched down like a bridal veil, and from its height the strings of colored lamps danced gally, while the dull fear of the crowd came up like a living voice. The colored bunting that by day turns the streets into a May Fair, slipped into the background of reflective shadow, and on nearly every corner a great building was blocked out in the lines of fire. The wind cast a playful shadow acrost the flaring rows that bordered one building, but in all other places the glare was steady. The crowds moved joyfusly through it all. The street vendors were busy. Souvenir canes rapped out every pavement. Badges and hats were bought. Ordinary trading continued. The squawk of a Chinese urchin was heard

Ordinary trading confinued. The squawk of a Chinese urchin was heard in the air. Cadets in dress uniform ambied along. There was the rasp of a tin here, and the blow of a locomobile's whistle. The clanging of a cable gong ruptured the mid-street solitude. There ascended the pleused cries of a crowd watching moving pictures.

There was an indescribeble murmur the throng. It was the chatter of well-dressed women, the llaughter of well-groomed men. Occisionally came the coarse shouts of street loungers, the brass boom of a band, the raucous, sepulchral cry from the magaphone of the brass boom of a band, the rancous, sepuichral cry from the magaphone of a phonograph, and the ding of the bell in the shooting gallery as the marksman hit the iron rabbit.

The light was on till midnight. It lost the rumble of sound as the evening were on, but overlead was the quiet sky, ample and pellucid. The stars and the earthy halid kept company till the clock struck 12, and then the electricity faded and the stars were out alone.

Shortly after 6 o'clock the lights on Broadway were tested, and at 7:15 all were turned on. A man was stationed in the middle of each block on each side of the street. The lamps were strung on Main, Spring and Broadway from Temple to Seventh streets of intervals of five feet. On each thotley pole a cluster of five lamps was placed. On Main and Spring streets Woodill & Huise installed 650e laws is, and on Broadway G. T. Bennett placed 2200. In addition to the regular decoration the front of the Boston store has 750 lamps, the Y.M.C.A. building, 170; the Broadway Department Store, 200; The Broadway Store, 200, and Stere were many other private displays. Always a queen of bear y as a city, nia spring. There is red, too, lots of it—not the rosy red of the maiden's blush, for Los Angeles has nothing to blush for save pride; but the rich, wine-red of the heart's blood in its joyousness.

On Spring street, flaglets, red, yellow and green, alternate in strings from block to block, doorway to doorway, mickering excitement. Festons of fuzzy, crinkly paper have formed a trust round the entrances of the stores, and are trying their best to the up business. The little shops from Temple street south lead up with sprightly measure to the great harmony of the work.

Wivid imagery and digital skill have combined to make the People's Store a thing of beauty. The building is anothered to the street and to the adjoining roofs by lines weighted with little triangular fings in the Fresta charmony of the property of the pro

H. J. Woollacott in a novel and admirable way.

One little shop has an odd series of tri-colored pigtalls as neatly platted as any schoolgirl's hair, wound round the windows. Every place has a bunch of Flesta color except one or two, which show only the dignified Stars and Stripes, believing, probably, that the greater includes the less.

Desmond's exhibits a wenderful piece of ingenuity in a large square shield, made solidly of strands of narrow tis-red, white and blue—the old Californian colors and the great American linked indissolubly by the mutual fundament, red.

B. F. Gardner's stationery store is ornamented principally with a Fiesta star framing a picture of a mission.

The Owl drug store, which is always more or less yellow, is more lurid than ever now. Red and green broad bands of heavy paper add to the effect. All the good things to eat in Godrey's window are decorated. The ham bone rejoices in a yellow fringed pantolet, and the fish swims in an emerald paper tank, while the strawberries try to look as ripe a red as the paper they are in.

The Angelus Hotel is floating many-colored flags, while palms and bunting decorate the windows.

One of the handsomest buildings is the Niles Pease Furniture Company's store. The windows are tastefully hung with the Fiesta-colored cloth, while large Fiesta and American flags wave over the entrance.

The sun strikes the garish garments of the street and their brilliancy enhances with his light. The May breeze flits in and lends a hand in "showing goods" and between them they raise a riot of splashing color and gladsomeness through the busy thoroughfare.

Fiesta flags predominate in the decoration of the Tajo Building and over the Broadway entrance are two gracefully-draped American flags.

The Times Building is aglow with alternate Fiesta and American flags, and over the main entrance, in large letters studded with lights, are the words "Welcome G.F. W.C." Suspended above Broadway between the Tajo and The Times.

Paper ropes in the wine, olive and orange of La Fiesta adorn the front of the Y.M.C.A. Building and Fiesta pennants are used lavishly.

Over the entrance of Howland & Co.'s kodak store is a large G.W.F.C. shield, and beneath is an I.O.F. cross, both in the festive colors, and the other decorations are carried out in ropes of paper, the whole producing a showy effect.

BEAUTIFUL FLORAL EFFECT.

A very beautiful dark effect in floral decoration is that on the building of the Los Angeles Furniture Company. A broad band of green eypress runs across the front just above the lower windows, and this is studded with geraniums in one section; the center is in plain green and the remaining part arrangement of sashes stretched from base to top of the building, and framing a long solid panel of Stars and Stripes.

M. A. Gunst's cigars and such like repose in drapery. The stand is artistically decorated with wreaths of fluffy paper frings.

The two pillars leading to the Union Bank of Savings are wrapped, one in orange paper, one in red, while a green belt joins them. Old Glory surmounts the whole.

The Los Angeles Theater flaunts such a wreath of bunting that the advertising posters are completely outdone, and it takes pretty vigorous bunting to get ahead of a poster designer for color. The telegraph and the railway offices along the street are fairly siddy with their tangle of color. A Fiesta darky in a big black boot draws his sooty water mark across the doorway of Burns's shoe store.

Blackstone's decorations are in a simple and handsome grouping of flags, with bunting loosely folded along the window sills. The effect is most pleasing.

LINKED IN A SHIELD.

Demond's exhibits a wenderful piece

In the same block the Orpheum shows a great star, hung high out over the sidewalk, at night blazing with colored incandescent lights.

In the block beyond Second street Messmore's restaurant is well draped in both red, white and blue and Flesta bunting, caught up with large rosettes. On the opposite side the funereal old cypress trees marshaled in front of St. Vibiana's Cathedral look startling with long festoons of red, yellow and green bunting stretching from one to another.

bunting stretching from one to another.

The P. H. Mathews Paint House is perhaps the most attractive sight in this block, swathed profusely in gay bunting and large American flags. L. D. Whitney's trunk factory is also gaily clothed, as is the extensive frontage of the Western Wholesale Drug Company's store. The building containing the Collseum Bowling Alleys presents a mass of color.

From Third to Fourth street the paint store of G. A. Thiele starts the procession, with Maltese-cross designs in Fiesta colors. The Van Nuys and Westminster hotels are a-flutter with flags from every window, and the canvas-covered approaches to the Van vas-covered approaches to the Van Nuys are a solid mass of carnival color. The remainder of the street out to Eeventh shows the usual display of Main street from First street north to the Plaza waves with flags and streamers. The Harper & Reynolds store is handsomely decorated in conventional style, as is C. F. A. Last's establishment in the McDonald Block. The Ducommun Hardware Store is gaily dressed, as is the F. W. Braun building further down, which is the northern outpost of the decorated zone.

American flags used without stint give the Hollenbeck Hotel an animated appearance, and the café on the ground floor is exceedingly gay in the same scheme of decoration.

An awning in solid Flesta colors makes the Del Monte restaurant conspicuous, and graceful streamers are pendant from the coping.

Hill street, from Third to Seventh, is decorated with a double line of flags, flying from the trolly wires. Some buildings along the street make a show of flags and Flesta colors. The Masonic Fair, at Hazard's Pavillon, above Hill, on Fifth street, has been so busy with itself, that the canopy in front of the Pavilion makes a show of neither.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.1 SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—The green-fruit shippers of the State met at the Palace Hotel today. The meeting was attended by the representatives of all the large fruit-shipping concerns and a number of large individual shippers and growers. All agreed that the aims of the shippers could be carried out only through the medium of a corporation in which the various shipping interests were stockholders, and the entire time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of the meeting was devoted to the task of agreeing upon the dentile time of t fornia fruit distributions are calculated to place the industry on a more sound business basis.

"One of the prindipal aims of the association, and one that is calculated materially to increase the weifare of the growers is to bring about a condition whereby fruit will be sold free on board instead of consignment. Outside of the several auction markets which include New York Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Montreal, it will be the policy of the association to sell the fruit here in advance of shipment, supplying the orders of all customers on that basis. To avoid losses through the sharp practice of commission men, some of whom have a happy faculty of rejecting a car when it is delivered to them on the excuse that the fruit did not arrive in good condition, or claiming a rebate for the same reason, we shall have agents on the ground to look after our Interests. All of these things will prove advantageous to the grower. The widening of the markets can be accomplished only by united effort, and the many evils incident to the fruit industry can only be corrected by measures such as we propose to inaugurate. For one thing, we shall cheapen the cost of selling the fruit at the other end. I believe these expenses will be reduced 25 to 50 per cent, this season."

The fruit shippers will resume their labors of perfecting their organization tomorrow. Officers will be elected, and ULLFIGHTERS GET INTO LEGAL ARENA. THEMSELVES INTO SCRAMBLE FOR PROFITS.

> Receiver Wanted to Handle the Affairs of the Grand Bull Play at the Bull Amphithester—Charges of Fraud and Roggishness Made.

Fighting has broken out among the buildighters, and now there is a law-suit begun in the Superior Court to determine who are the victors.

W. W. Sanches and Tadeo. J. Sanches are lined up as plaintiffs against José Perez, Alonso G. Sanchez, Andres Porras, Miguel Salcido and Carlos Barron, and they are fighting over a contract. Perez, A. G. Sanchez and Porras comprise a partnership owning the "Gran Corrido de Toros," or Grand Buil Play at the amphitheater near the Chutes Park. On March 18 the plaintiffs: signed an agreement with A.G. Sanchez and Porras, whereby for $200 the plaintiffs were to secure one-third of the profits of all buildights held prior to next September—"profits" to be considered as the balance remaining after the payment of all necessary expenses, and "necessary expenses" of each performance to be no more than $130.

Now two other parties have appeared with claims to the profits. They are no more than $130.

Now two other parties have appeared with claims to the profits. They are Saicido and Barron, but it is alleged that these men have no proprietory or other interest in the profits of the performances, but are agents of defendants employed to cheat plaintiffs.

A receiver is sought for and the court is asked to compel a specific performance of the agreement by all parties. William Crawford, Esq., is attorney for plaintiffs.

SENATOR JONES ATTACHED.

Attachment has been levied on the beautiful home of Senator John P. Jones at Santa Monica in a suit to foreclose a promissory note for $2500.

The plaintiff to the action is Mrs. Mary E. Bobrick. The note is signed jointly by Senator Jones and ex-Senator Stephen W. Dorsey, both of whom are well-known capitalists of the West. It bears a date in October of last year, and was executed in favor of H. P. Layton, a New York man, interested in a liquid-air venture.

Now Mrs. Bobrick holds the note, and, tiring of waiting for a settlement, has brought suit to recover. Her attorney is George A. Corbin, Esq. A final disposition of the matter has been delayed, it is thought, because the Senators may be wrangling between themselves as to which shall pay the bill. SENATOR JONES ATTACHED.

THE INPERIOR COURTS.

Wept in the Criminal Dock Because She Had to Go to Jail-Had Sick

Lena Burke, the wreck of a famous beauty, was tried in the Police Court yesterday for drunkenness.

Whoever thought that the capricious "Spanish Beauty" would sit weeping in a sordid criminal dock for lack of $2.50 to keep her out of jail?

She is losing that radiant, delicious beauty which made her famous all over Southern California a few years ago.

over Southern California a few years ago.

After all her conquests, her lurid matrimonial experience, her sensational attempts at suicide, it was strictly a domestic drama yesterday.

She told the court that she had not been on a spree. She said she had been sitting up night after night nursing her sick husband, and took liquor only to keep up her failing strength.

When Justice Morgan fixed her fine at $5, she burst into tears and begged him pitifully to take $3.50-ail the money she had—and let her go back and nurse her husband.

need of taking a ballot. The demonstration of applause that greeted the big chief when he rose to express his thanks for the high honor so repeatedly conferred upon him, lasted for some minutes. It was an ovation that any man might be proud of.

With a few exceptions the remaining officers of the Supreme Court were also reflected, the new Executive Council being made up as, follows: Supreme Chief Ranger, Hon, Dr. Oronhyatekha, J.P., Toronto, Ont.; Past Supreme Chief Ranger, Hon, Judge W. Wedderburn, Hampton, N. B.; Supreme Vice-Chief Ranger, Joseph S. Clark, Dayton, O.; Supreme Secretary, Lieut.-Col. John A. McGillvray, K.C., P.H.C.R., Toronto, Ont.; Supreme Treasurer, H. A. Cameron, M.D., Galt, Ont.; E. W. Buckly, M.D., St. Paul, Minn.

The only other business of public interest transacted by the Supreme Court yesterday was the selection of the next place of meeting. Invitations were received from Boston, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Denver, Toronto and Quebec. Each of the cities named had its advocates, but Boston, whose claims were ably championed by W. E. Brown of Michigan, received the honor.

It was decided that after the adjournment of the Supreme Court in Los Angeles, a session of one day should be held in San Francisco. It was also decided that the entire sitting of the present court should not exceed eight days.

Most of yesterday's session was taken up with the consideration of, amendments to the constitution, and business of a similar nature will continue to engross the attention of the delegates for several days to come.

ent Powers on Major and Mines Water Propositions.

LOS ANGELES, April 30, 1902.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I notice in today's Times an article from the pen of Randolph H. pared to prove to the satisfaction of the Finance Committee.

On the other hand the help required to do the work in the water company's office requires a cashier, an assistant cashier or an assistant collector, auditor and chief collector, and the expense is certainly more than quadruple, besides the cost of maintaining separate offices, which is beyond question injudicious from a business standpoint.

Mr. Miner refers to the "much-abused" water department. I cannot see the philosophy of this statement when the auditor receives $2000 per year, the chief collector $1500, the cashier $1500 and the assistant cashier or assistant collector, $1500 per year. It would seem to me that the water company was very much respected, indeed. Mr. Miner also refers to the fact that the which he takes exceptions to my computations as to the cost of collecting the water taxes.

My figures were all procured at the City Tax and License Collector's office, and I believe them to be correct. If, as I stated in my message to the City Council, the cashler in the Tax Collector's office has ample time to make all water collections, with the help of one assistant only for four or five weeks during the year, then my argument is good, and this I am fully prepared to prove to the satisfaction of the Finance Committee.

collector, $1500 per year. It would seem to me that the water company was very much respected, indeed. Mr. Miner also refers to the fact that the water department's efficiency is due to the careful management of S. B. Caswell. This is probably true, and I have no desire to find fault with any of the former managers or the present help, but I do consider it my duty, as one of the agents of the taxpayers of the city, to use all fair means in my power to minimise the cost of majatianing and operating the city government, and this I propose to do during my term of office.

Mr. Miner seems to feel frightened at the prospect of the numerous kicks that will surely come to the Tax Collector's office. This can and will be obviated by an action of the Council ordering all water not paid for shut off on the 10th day of each morith; also, by making proper discounts to all parties who pay in advance when this is done. Nine-tenths of all water bills will be paid by check, and mostly in advance, for the sake of discount. If any complaints are necessary concerning the service they can be made to the executive department or to the commissioners. The outside inspectors will be needed, as at the present time, to report on the conditions of the service and complaints of patrons, and will be under the orders of the general managers.

I wish to fully satisfy Mr. Miner be under the orders of the general managers. I wish to fully satisfy Mr. Miner that I am not trying to decry the present management, as he intimates, and only ask that a careful consideration be given this question, to the end that a more economical management may be obtained. Personally, I hold all the employes of the present department in high esteem and feel sure that they are capable and honest.

Produce Exchange.

The merchants interpreted in organizing a produce exchange in this city met yesterday afternoon, according to adjournment last week. The fact that it was the last day of the month, which always is a busy day, and that the Fiesta takes place furing the week, kept many of those away who are expected to take part in the institution. It was therefore thought advisable to make another postporement, and this was done to Wednesday of next week, when it is hoped an organization may be effected.

At the same time that all this was taking place at the Westminster, the Van Nuys, just across the street, was the scene of what might be called "an informally-informal" reception to the president, Mrs. Rebecca Douglass Lowe, and the officers of the General Federation. The lobby and pariors were filled with those who came to meet the distinguished guests. Among those present were noticed Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Sartori, Mrs. W. W. The programme for the opening of the General Federation, which will be called to order by Mrs. Lowey its distinguished president, in Simpson Auditorium at 2 o'clock this afternoon. is as follows:

At 9 o'clock a.m. in the Synagogue the Advisory Council will hold a private conference, followed by meetings of the Board of Directors and Council. The topic for discussion is "How does the true club spirit manifest itself?"

At 8 o'clock p.m., in the Women's Clubhouse, the official reception will be tendered the Biennial Local Board.

Never before in its history has Los Angeles contained so many brainy, beautiful and accomplished women as are here today for the opening of the sixth Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The convention which assembles to-day at Simpson Auditedium is a true omposite of the very best of the sex in the world-the typical twentiethcentury American woman.

All of the General Federation officer are here for the convention, the last to arrive being Mrs. Dimies T. S. Deni-son of New York, first vice-president who came in late last night. Mrs. George W. Kendrick of Philadelphia, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Emma M. Van Vechten, treasurer, were among earlier arrivals.

The headquarters at the Auditorium was a brilliant center of activity all day. The Credentials Committee and committees were in session throughout the day and were kept very busy. A register was opened at the Information Bureau, and many hundred delegates names and addresses were recorded Badges and tickets were issued and questions answered. The convenience cited favorable comment.

Political wiseacres among the women said yesterday that Mrs. Burdette's chances are not so bright as they have been, and her active opponents claim to have made gains in the campaign against her.
One eastern woman held views opposite to those of Mrs. Scott-Decker. This woman said it would be the handsome thing to give the presidency to the Pacific Coast or some Far Western State in view of the fact that the next Biennial probably will go to an eastern or a Middle West city.
Up and down the line, at afternoon teas, at committee meetings at State gatherings, and wherever a bevy of women assembles the presidency is discussed, and from present appearances no other issue is half so important.
Mrs. Burdette was compelled to remain in her rooms at the Van Nuys all day yesterday, suffering with an abscess in the right ear, which caused her intense pain Tuesday night. An operation was performed by Drs. McCoy and Bridge, and she endeavored to make her appearance in the morning, but she had a fainting spell and remained in the reporter.

Another terrible thing has happened to menace the success of the Blennial. If anything, this is more tragic than the fearful famine of dressmakers reported a while ago by The Times.

Yes, but what? Oh, what is it? If she can find out, the Southern Pacific would like to know, too. About as bad a fix there.

Two ladies of the Biennial had a thrilling escape from being clothesless. They got off the overland at Riverside for a minute and couldn't tear themselves away in time. They were left strangers in a strange land.

They fleft all their clothes scattered around in their Pullman car section. They came into the city yesterday without as much as a chamois for talcum, powder.

In a panic they made a descent upon the Southern Pacific Railroad yards there, and to their joy found that the porter had mounted guard, and their accountrements were just as they left them.

An interesting item of news comes from St. Petersburg. It is said that persistent reports are in circulation there to the effect that the Czar will shortly issue a recript, giving a constitution similar to the scheme for administrative reform drawn up by a late Minister of the Interior, which scheme was sanctioned by the late Czar, Alexander III. If this is true, it marks the lapse of Middle Age despotism in its last important stronghold among the civilized nations of the world. For Russia is today, to all intents and purposes, an abso lute despotism, where the people have not even a pretense of a voice in the management of public affairs, and where the Czar is the temporal as well as the spiritual representative of the Almighty. Turkey does not France and Switzerland are republics mark, the Scandinavian peninsula, Austria, Belgium, Holland, Italy and Spain all have representative forms of government, some of which are not liberty which they grant the people to express their views. Last evening at the Los Angeles Theater Mme. Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler gave a piano recital, rendering the above programme. Of most piano recitals, even by great artists, it is enough to state that they took place, giving the programme and mentioning a few strong characteristics of the performer. That is generally sufficient to give a fair idea of the concert. Such is not the case with the recital of last night. It is beyond the power of cold type to describe the effect produced by the playing of Mme. Zeisler. Certainly there, has been nothing here to which one can logically compare it. It is woman's playing, a resolution of the eternal feminine into music. It is not the massive, intellectual playing of a Rosenthal, though it never lacks intellect; nor the youthful idealism and poesy of a Hofmann, though it fails in neither ideal nor poetry. It has the power and brilliancy of Carreno without her harshness. It is just Zeisler, unique and great. This little nervous woman with the somber half-closed eyes, like veiled fires, and the pale, ecstatic profile, has reared a new monument to art and winged herself to tionalist dominated by a noble intelligence. Hers is a rare temperament. Such musical passion is given to few and to still fewer the power to control it. It is because Zeisler is master of her emotions that her emotional power over her audience is so large, so complete. She might be a reincarnation of the soul of Chopin, so wholly has she the spirit of the great Pole's works. The tenderness of maternity breathed through the "Berceuse;" the "Valse" was a rhythmic dream and the "Polonaise" a whirlwind of passion and delirious fascination. In the lighter numbers one for got the magnitude of emotion which had enthralled in the "Eri-King" and the "Etudes Symphoniques," but the "Polonaise" brought back the realization of it with vivid force. The very soul of the woman spoke through it, recurring to the dominant theme each time with added fire and conviction. The effect on the listeners was remarkable. They stormed and clamored until, after bringing Mme. Zeisler back seven or eight times, she finally consented to add an encore, and even then they continued their applause so that she was obliged to rise several times to bow acknowledgment before quiet was sufficiently restored for her toplay.

A very ciever piece of technique was the rendering of the "Luccia" andante the constant watchfulness and protection of the army into Proposition everywhere in the archipelago, and & was resolved that without the constant watchfulness and protection of the army into Proposition everywhere in the archipelago, and & was resolved that without the constant watchfulness and protection of the army into Philippines no property or business interests would be the army in the Philippines of the army into Property or business interests would be the army in the Philippines of the army in the Philipp was sufficiently restored for her to play.

A very clever piece of technique was the rendering of the "Lucia" andante for left hand. Pure sentiment and expressiveness were evidenced in the Liszt "Love's Dream." Its poetry and tenderness were a soothing balim after the moving "Polonaise." Outside the world was all agog with Flesta liberties. A thousand discords of the street penetrated the walls of the theater; but Zeisler, with her wrapt expression, like a priestess of love, played on through the Liszt dream until the discords were unheard and forgotten. The "Caprice Espagnol," with its tripping, airy cadence, redolent of a Castilian night with its jessamine and serenades, brought forth another determined storm of applause which would not brought forth another determined storm of applause which would not be denied. Mme. Zeisler added as en-core Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Someone has called Zeisler the Bern-berdt of the pinn. Such names are hardt of the piano. Such names are not generally happy. Had, however, the writer gone to the realm of music for his prototype and called her the Calvé of the piano, he might have done so without criticism. Zeisler is wonderfully suggestive of that great tragic singer in her subtle magnetism, ber intensity and the sleeping fire of

PATTERSON GETS IN. "Do you mean the Filipino people that are left alive after they have been subjugated?" inquired Senator

Patterson.

Gen. MacArthur declared that he did not mean that there would be any unusual destruction of life in the Philippines. "The destruction," he said, "is simply incident to war, and, of course, embraces a very small percentage of the total population, which is dense." Replying to this statement, Gen. MacArthur informed Senator Patterson that if he preferred to believe that, he (MacArthur) could not help it, "We have as much right to believe that from an American officer who is the civil Governor; and who is there in the province, as we have to believe you," replied Senator Patterson, which brought the retort from Gen. NEW YORK, April 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mostly in jest, but still with some appearance of seriousness, Andrew Carnegie, before sailing for England today on the St. Louis, declared that some day he might go into the newspaper publishing business.

"Some day I may buy up a lot of newspapers," he told reporters who were gathered about him, "and then I will give you all a chance. I have had something of this kind in mind for a long time, and quite soon I may determine to carry out the idea."

Carnegie is taking a six months' vacation, and will spend most of the time at Skibo Castle, his home in the Scotish Highlands. He said he had made no very recent gifts to libraries, and that there would be no announcement that there would be no announcement to make after his departure, as was the case last year, when his gift to the City of New York was made public the day after he sailed.

-Treat Men Only

Weakness

THERE IS NO SUCH CONDITION AS ORGANIC "WEAKNESS" IN A MAN otherwise strong and robust, and if the following facts are understood he may realize the uselessness of treating it as such.

Anatomy and Physiology teach us that the Prostate gland (so-called neck of the bladder,) is the very center of the reproductive system in the male. Inflammation of any organ invariably causes disordered function of that organ and symptome peculiar to the organ inflamed arise. It should be apparent that the Prostate, when damaged by long-continued and too often repeated excitement by the harmful influence exercised by an ill-treated contracted disorder, that disordered function must result. Congestion of the Prostate, by these factors, is so long kept up that it finally becomes localized as a chronic affection, and a catarthal condition of the ejaculatory and prostate ducts establishes itself. The first symptoms pointing to this providate disorder are referable to the reproductive system. This is invariably followed, if cure is not effected, by all

I Can Cure Every Case of Varicocele

Thousands of men are afficied with varicocele. Most of them have tried unsuccessful treatment, and are of course prejudiced against any and all who pretend to cure a case of varicocele.

When I say I can cure every case of varicocele without failure, and do it without pain or use of the knife, it. of course, sounds just like thousands of other statements made in advertisements made in advertisement of the continual course, and the course and say to the course and say to the continually says have a cases among the best, most reliable to Angeles. Stricture

Contracted Disorders.

Include specific blood poison, inflammation, stricture, discharges, local ulcer and swellings. I have often warned patients against unreliable methods for treating this most important class of disorders. The cheapest and best course is to employ genuine, able specialist who has the ability and experience necessary to do for each case exactly the right thing at the right time. I have spent seventeen years at this work and when I take a case to treat I charge a reasonable fee for my work, furnish all necessary medicine free, treat the case personally, and guarantee complete cure. No defi-nite promises were made and it is probable that very little or no encouragement will be given to the strikers.

The local fish catchers do not fear any invasion at this port from the Japanese. This is due, no doubt, to the rough water, the Japanese and that class not being partial to heavy surf work. The Redondo fishermen are all Americans, and do not fear competition from anybody. Their fishing gear and paraphernalia runs into thousands of dollars in valuation. Most of them, have homes here, and as a class they are prosperous. During the past week, including today's catch, 42,000 pounds of fish have been shipped to the Los Angeles markets.

Redlands had heretofore been the only formidable competitor, but today the "Agitating Committee" received a letter from one of the most influential of the Redlands workers, stating that they do not care to bring the State convention there in the bot weather, and have decided to drop out of the race. The Endeavorers in that city are now expected to work for San Diego, and the local members consider that the battle is won.
